

How many hospitals rang in the year with the birth of Connecticut's first twins of 2010?

One.

It could have been the New Year's Eve revelry that stirred Samuel and Noah Goldman. While most Connecticut residents were out celebrating the dawning of the decade, these bitty bundles of joy surprised their parents by arriving just after 2:00 a.m. on January 1, 2010—two months ahead of schedule—in The Birthplace at Bridgeport Hospital. Mom and Dad were confident that the whole family was in capable hands. Why? The experts in The Birthplace provide state-of-the-art care for high-risk moms, multiples, premature infants with complex health issues and full-term babies, any day (or night) of the year. Now that's Caring for Your Life!
